Project Description: All ethnicities are strongly encouraged to audition for The Clockwork Professor, a brand new steampunk play by Seattle playwright, Maggie Lee, directed by Amy Poisson, produced by Pork Filled Productions.

The Clockwork Professor takes place in the alternative world of New Providence, a Victorian-era-inspired society. Professor Pemberton is a humble inventor, a quiet man of science. As political unrest sweeps over the great city of New Providence, buried secrets from his past threaten to destroy everything that he holds dear, and perhaps even the Crown itself! From romance to royal airships to roving inter-dimensional portals, come join The Clockwork Professor on this action-packed adventure of fantastical science fiction with a steampunk twist!

The Clockwork Professor will be performed in Theatre Off Jackson in the International District from July 12, 2013 to August 3, 2013. Performances run Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays with an industry night performance on Monday, July 29.

Pork Filled Productions is the theater offshoot of the long-running sketch comedy group, The Pork Filled Players. PFProductions grew from a desire to break stereotypes and challenge the expectations of what can be seen in theater.
