Pork Filled Fun Facts

- Pork Filled Players was founded in 1997 by Roger Tang, David Kobayashi, Wally Glenn and Ellen Williams.
- Ellen Williams may be more familiar to TV audiences as “Patrice” on How I Met Your Mother.
- Artistic Director Roger Tang is known as the Godfather of Asian American Theatre.
- From 1998 to 2002, PFP was an Artist in Residence at Northwest Asian American Theatre.
- Pork Filled Players is a charter member of Seattle Sketchfest, the nation’s first festival devoted to sketch comedy (www.sketchfest.org) and has appeared a record eight times.
- PFP has been active in the Seattle Fringe Festival, both as a participant (in three festivals and counting) and as a fundraiser (trying to raise funds to pay off artists left high and dry in 2003).
- Pork Filled has worked with a Tony Award winner (David Henry Hwang, Yellow Face), a Hugo Award winner (Phil Foglio, The Clockwork Professor) kind of an Emmy Award winner (Pork Filled alum Ed Tonai was a featured cast member of the Emmy Award winning TV show, The Baseball Bunch).
